In 1964, a beautiful 17th Century coaching inn became home to my parents, Michael and Diana Chudley, and our large family. Having always welcomed guests into their home, they developed a new type of country house venue, combining superb facilities with professional service in an environment conducive to successful group events.

That coaching inn was Highgate House in Northamptonshire, and from these beginnings grew a national business now comprising a number of superb properties. Sundial Group owes its existence to the creativity and energy of 'Mum' and the many people who had the good fortune to work with her.

The culture and values that were established at Highgate House some forty years ago still underpin the Sundial brand. Award-winning as an enterprising, innovative and service-oriented organisation, Sundial Group is determined to ensure the best possible experience for your event.

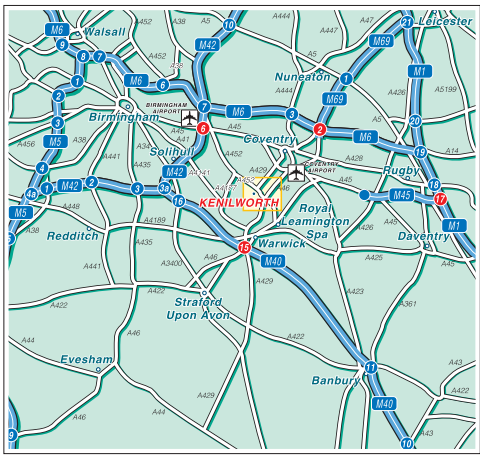

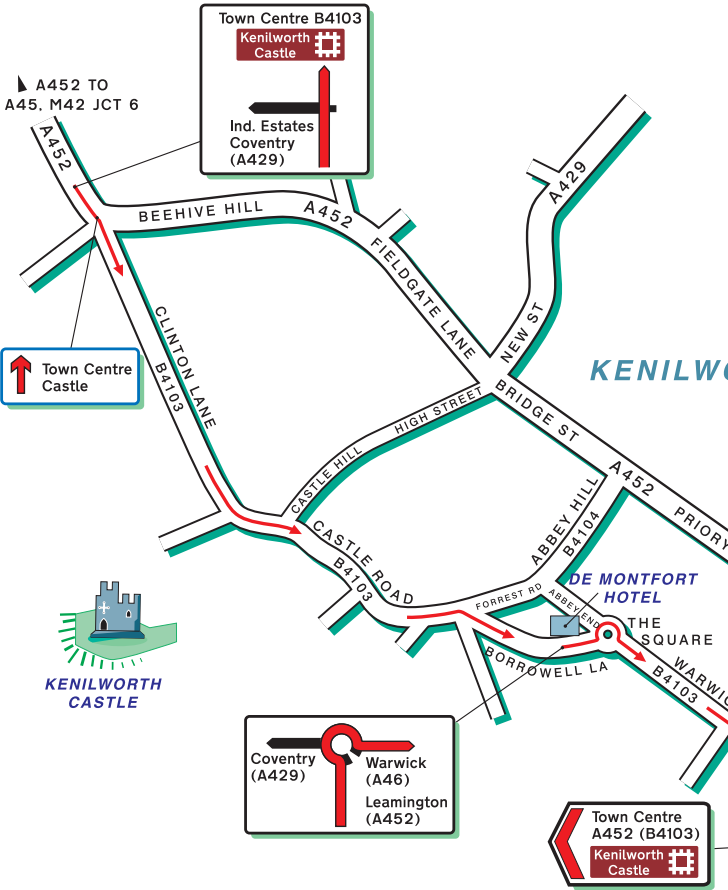

Sundial's Goody Bags
Leading the way in excellent hospitality

What makes Sundial unique in the market is that it remains entirely owned and managed by the Chudley family. This means we focus on giving the very best to our customers. Every time you use a Sundial venue you are our guest and will experience a level of service personally guaranteed by me and my family.

I hope you enjoy your stay with us, whatever your reason for visiting.
